The English papers have suggested a new way of serving up capital punishment-that of drowning the criminal. That is all very well, but would hardly be distinction enough for a first-class murderer.

flour, however, is the result.

The editor of the Journal was much amused at the antics of five drunken mice recently. It he had gone on the streets he could, perhaps, have found some amusement in the antica fof a score of beinddled rats; full grown bipeds, as drunk as lords.

The Jefferson Tribune complains of a meagre exchange list during the holidays. We have been annoyed by this circumstance ourselves. People like news, if anything, better about Christmas times than any other. They like to crowd the good things.

The Statesman wants the papers of the State to cease complimenting leading Radicals at the expense of their advisers. It is so seldom that they do anything commendable that when they do, the Statesman should not grudge them the small meed of praise they get.

The resolution against the nominaheaviest gun yet opened upon the field. It practically amounts to his simple combination of legal ability, all his power, dare not run.

Alex H. Stephens made a powerful speech the other day in Congress was, were making a tremendous mistake. Principles are eternal and can gever die. This is the true position. No! Democracy can never die

Col. Steinberg has been making Nellie Grant a present of doves, brought all the way from the Navigatior Islands. We have sent her father a dove all the way from Texas. in the person of Collossal Jack, only the note our dove sings is a few octaves harsher than Miss Nellie's.

The News is still fighting the Dem ocratic platform, through the Constitutional Convention plank. Cannot the News understand that this is now no time to re-open that matter. The people will insist upon a full performance of all the provisions of the contract, under which the late Demos eratic success was gained.

Crutchfield, of Illinois, is a wag of the first water. His resolution amending the supplementary civil rights bill shows this. This is the way to fight so monstrous a propositionlaugh it out of court. Hereafter if one rejects, or feels like rejecting an offer of marriage because the candidate happens to be black, or to have been a slave, let him beware. We progress!

We publish in another column a press dispatch, which states that Son ner presented a petition of citizens of Onto, protesting against the recognismind on this subject.

THE MENTER OF SCHOOL

The wirer yesterday brought is the FROM WASHINGTON - NACIONAL ominous tiding that Jack Hamilton Bankers. was on his way to Washington, and that his mission was to lay before the National Government his own and his party's one-sided version of the difficulties existing in this State with reference to our late elections. Jack ever done before, if he thinks at all. starts out on his infamous mission loudly disclaiming gubernatorial as pirations; if he does not entertain them, and his mission has no reference to a military government in this State, why say anything about it? Mr. Wm. Herring, an old friend and subscriber of the Examiner, formerly of this place, new of Hill county, yesterday gave us a call. We are always glad to meet our friends from the country, and especially those who, like Mr. Herring, are struggling to solve the problem of life on the principle of strict integrity and honest toil. We learn, with pleasure, from Mr. Herring that the farmers, though "cut down," or somewhat discoaraged by the low price of cotton, are undismayed and hopeful of better time to come. Immigration to his section, the vicinity of Covington has far transcended the expectation of the most sanguine.
